

Open Tracking is behind much of the online tracking for sports events in the UK, and increasingly internationally, we provide services to over 50 event organisers and cover over 100 events a year. In the last year we have also diversified in to providing a barcode timing solution for events, and we are constantly looking to push the boundaries of what is possible in the world of online services in outdoor events.

Who are we looking for?

- A developer with an interest in providing a high-quality tracking solution to an online audience and event organisers
- Experience of front-end web development using PHP and MySQL
- Comfortable in working on a Windows PC (rather than a MAC)
- Self-motivated and happy to learn new technologies and with an attention to detail
- Someone who enjoys being with people who are active and, in the outdoors
- Happy to sleep in a tent
- A people person, with a customer service head on their shoulders
- Work weekends and happy to work on a laptop
- Able to drive, have own reliable vehicle insured for business use
- Happy to work alone
- Be able to lift / carry / prepare packages up to 15kg
- Practical, can do attitude, prepared to solve problems

What to do?

- To assist with the development and support of the online tracking portal and event backend system
- To set up events on the portal and communicate with event organisers regarding details
- To attend events to provide onsite support for Open Tracking services
- To assist with the dispatch and check-in of trackers from events
- We estimate this role is 25% admin, 15% at events, 60% working as a developer.

Where?

- To be clear this job is not a work from home job. The place of work is Haverthwaite, LA12 8LY. With exception of the work at events.
- The office has a shower and there is great local running and walking routes.

Hours

- This is a fulltime role.
- 20 days holiday
- 9-5 in office
- No long holidays June, July and Sept

Salary

We don't want to duck this rather key number. We want to get the right person and pay our way. Conversely we are a growing business that doesn't have a bottomless pot of money. In applying we would appreciate if you could let us know what salary you would be expecting.

To apply

Please send an email to talkto@opentracking.co.uk with why you would like to work for Open Tracking along with a CV or an email showing work experience to date. If separate document please send as a PDF or word document.

As finding the right person is important to us, we are reasonably flexible with interview and start dates. There will be a formal 3 month probation period.
